Agriculture Final Exam Paper 1 2013:

Research Developments in Saline Agriculture Jagdish Chander Dagar, Rajender Kumar Yadav, Parbodh Chander Sharma, 2019-06-21 Soil and water salinity is a major challenge for the agricultural community and policy makers in terms of meeting the burgeoning population's demand for food and other agricultural commodities. In coastal regions, climate change and sea level rise will aggravate the problem with more and more areas becoming saline due to intrusion of sea water. As such, there is a pressing need for modern tools and innovative techniques for the identification of salty soils and poor quality waters, crop production, soil reclamation, and lowering the water table in waterlogged areas. Tackling next generation problems such as contamination of soil and underground water due to fluoride and arsenic, as well as developing multi-stress tolerant crops, is also a high priority. Further techniques for domesticating halophytes, mangrove-based aquacultures using seaweed cultures as agricultural crops, and integrated farming systems need to be perfected. This book addresses all these aspects in detail, highlighting the diverse solutions to tackle the complex problem of salinity and waterlogging and safer management of poor quality waters. With chapters written by leading experts, it is a valuable resource for researchers, planning future investigations, policy makers, farmers, and other stakeholders, and for students wanting insights into vital issues of environment.

Soil Degradable Bioplastics for a Sustainable Modern Agriculture Mario Malinconico, 2017-02-14 This book shows how the use of biodegradable plastics in agriculture can have a profound positive impact on plasticulture. Starting with an organic chemistry approach to biodegradable and compostable plastics, both natural and synthetic, it then analyzes the technological and agronomic aspects of existing bioplastics for protected cultivation, mulching, direct cover, low tunnels. It describes the new sprayable biodegradable mulching method which is based on the use of waterborne polysaccharides and cellulosic fibers. A further chapter describes the research and technology of biodegradable plastics for different agricultural practices. It also includes chapters on life cycle assessment (LCA) of biodegradable plastics for agriculture and existing and developing standards in the field. It is a valuable resource for agronomists, chemical and materials engineers, polymer technologists, and scientists, as well as for a more general readership interested in the application of green chemistry principles to the vast world of crop production. Mario Malinconico is
