Agriculture Paper2 Jc 2013

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations

Agriculture Paper2 Jc 2013:

Understanding the impact of planted forest on smallholder livestock farmers and their livelihoods in the Greater Mekong Subregion Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2021-11-23 Significant forest change in the Greater Mekong Subregion GMS has resulted in deforestation of primary forests and expansion of plantation forests. Although plantation forest development benefits rural communities through income generation and employment opportunities, there have been negative impacts including reductions in livestock grazing land and collection of non timber forest products. This study analysed the association between primary forests, plantation forests, grazing areas and large ruminant populations in Cambodia, Lao PDR and Viet Nam. The report showed that livestock populations in the GMS are dynamic and have been under pressure due to enhanced trade and demand in red meat in China and Viet Nam, with a generally positive association between planted forest areas and populations of cattle and buffalo in Lao PDR and Viet Nam. Tree plantations were an important source of income and generally perceived as having a positive impact on rural livelihoods despite negative impacts in grazing land availability. It is recommended that integrative approaches that include the collection of household level data to assess the impact on smallholder livelihoods and the collection of regional level data to capture forest changes in future forest assessments, enabling a more comprehensive understanding of the association between primary forests and planted forest on smallholder livestock production. Silvopastoral models have the potential to provide more viable and sustainable alternatives to the current forestry and livestock production models, supporting the transformation to more sustainable agriculture for better production, better environment and sustainable development goals in GMS countries and beyond.

Multifunctional Agriculture Roger Leakey, 2017-04-14 In a world increasingly challenged by the need to integrate and understand highly specialized knowledge in a multidisciplinary way, this book is innovative and perhaps unique in addressing this challenge. It focuses on ideas, strategies, techniques and practices spanning many disciplines at the interface of agriculture with forestry, horticulture, plant physiology, genetics, ecology, soil science, food science, economics and the social and environmental sciences as delivered by intensified and enriched agroforestry. Multifunctional Agriculture addresses this complexity using case studies and insights from the needs of African farmers whose livelihoods are constrained by complex interactions between social, environmental and economic factors and problems underlying agricultural sustainability in Africa. This book therefore provides an important resource for those trying to understand the role of agriculture in the achievement of the new Sustainable Development Goals by providing easily implementable practical and effective methodologies and practices. Provides a single source, comprehensive insight into agroforestry, multifunctional agriculture, its potential challenges and progress. Helps readers understand and assess potential opportunity through implementation. Includes case studies and real world insights that address common situations and the practical application of best practices. Explores the role of multi functional agriculture in mitigating climate change impacts.

Gordon, Herbert H.T. Prins, Geoff R. Squire, 2016-11-25 Feeding the world's growing human population is increasingly challenging especially as more people adopt a western diet and lifestyle Doing so without causing damage to nature poses an even greater challenge This book argues that in order to create a sustainable food supply whilst conserving nature agriculture and nature must be reconnected and approached together The authors demonstrate that while the links between nature and food production have to some extent already been recognized until now the focus has been to protect one from the impacts of the other Instead it is argued that nature and agriculture can and should work together and ultimately benefit from one another Chapters describe efforts to protect nature through globally connected protected area systems and illustrate how farming methods are being shaped to protect nature within agricultural systems The authors also point to many ways in which nature benefits agriculture through the ecosystem services it provides Overall the book shows that nature conservation and food production must be considered as equally important components of future solutions to meet the global demand for food in a manner that is sustainable for both the human population and the planet as a whole Turn Down the Heat World Bank Publications, 2014-11-20 A Report for the World Bank by the Potsdam Institute for Climate Impact Research and Analytics World Social Science Report, 2013 Annual Report of the Department of Inspection of Workshops, Factories and Public Buildings, to the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, for the Year ... Ohio.
