The Indian Journal of Agricultural Sciences ,2018 Agricultural and Climate Change Adaptation Law in Africa Habib Sani Usman,2025-02-17 This book presents an analysis of climate change and agricultural laws in Kenya Nigeria and South Africa in order to determine whether they adequately addressed the concept of agricultural adaptation Agriculture is one of the sectors of the economy that is contributing to climate change and at the same time the sector is heavily impacted by climate change Therefore agricultural adaptation is required. Focusing on three countries this book provides a novel comparative examination of how and to what extent the law promotes agriculture focused adaptation in these countries. The role of the law in addressing issues such as water management strategies, soil conservation methods and crop production methods is discussed. This book identifies gaps in the regulatory frameworks for agricultural adaptation and highlights the lack of adaptive capacity of African agriculture due to weak or non-existing legal frameworks. It discusses ways to remedy these gaps through specific on-farm adaptation strategies, legislative amendments to consolidate all relevant national climate change related policies and laws with agricultural policies and laws that have relevant provisions on adaptation as medium term solutions and the development of a specific framework law for agriculture focused adaptation incorporating essential agricultural adaptation strategies could perhaps be enacted as long term solutions to the regulatory gaps. This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of law, climate change, food and agriculture, sustainable development and African studies.

Evolution and Phylogeny of Bees John D. Plant, Hannes F. Paulus, 2016 Volume 161 of Zoologica reviews and analyses the evolution and phylogeny of bees. It is subdivided into two parts. Part One A Preamble to the Evolution and Phylogeny of Bees provides a complete and critical review of all previous attempts to reconstruct the phylogenetic tree of bees. Anthophila Apiformes based on morphological, bionomic and molecular approaches and presented in chronological sequence up to and including recent publications. At the same time the introductory part examines trends in the classification of bees and compares available hypotheses of bee evolution. Part One closes with a family wise delineation of the fossil history of bees. Part Two A Phylogenetic Study of Bees in Light of Morphological Evidence adds an experimental study to complement the bibliographical analysis provided in Part One. The phylogenetic relationships of the larger taxonomic units of bees are tested anew using an extensive dataset of selected morphological features. The study uses all common and current computer aided techniques of cladistic analysis: parsimony, successive implied weight, Bayesian and neighbor joining, which are applied to representatives of all seven families, 22 subfamilies and 48 of 58 tribes of bees. The conclusions drawn from this are evaluated for the major groups i.e. short tongued and long tongued bees and separately for the families.

subfamilies and tribes in each case In a world currently dominated by molecular genetic approaches to phylogeny this study clearly demonstrates that it is not anachronistic to engage in morphological efforts because progress can be significantly advanced and the pool of available scientific arguments enriched The diversity of the object of investigation justifies a variety of methods This monograph is a much needed reference work of high practical value for all students of bee evolution phylogeny and morphology Further it is ideally suited as good introductory reading material for university level students
