Agricultural Sciences June 2014 Paper1:

Livestock Production and Climate Change Pradeep K Malik, Raghavendra Bhatta, Junichi Takahashi, Richard Kohn, Cadaba S Prasad, 2015-04-22 In a changing climate livestock production is expected to exhibit dual roles of mitigation and adaptation in order to meet the challenge of food security. This book approaches the issues of livestock production and climate change through three sections I Livestock production II Climate change and III Enteric methane amelioration. Section I addresses issues of feed quality and availability, abiotic stress, heat and nutritional and strategies for alleviation. livestock generated nitrogen and phosphorus pollution and approaches for harnessing the complex gut microbial diversity. Section II discusses the effects of climate change on livestock diversity, farm animal reproduction, impact of meat production on climate change and emphasising the role of indigenous livestock in climatic change to sustain production. Section III deals with the most recent approaches to amelioration of livestock methane such as breeding for low methane emissions, reductive acetogenesis, immunization, vaccine based concepts and archaea phage therapy.

Agricultural Research in Africa Lynam, John, Beintema, Nienke M., Roseboom, Johannes, Badiane, Ousmane, 2016-09-06 This book prepared by Agricultural Science and Technology Indicators ASTI which is led by IFPRI offers a comprehensive perspective on the evolution, current status and future goals of agricultural research and development in Africa including analyses of the complex underlying issues and challenges involved as well as insights into how they might be overcome. Agriculture in Africa south of the Sahara is at a prospective tipping point. Growth has accelerated in the past decade but is unsustainable given increasing use of finite resources. The yield gap in African agriculture is significant and scenarios on feeding the world's population into the future highlight the need for Africa to expand its agricultural production. Agricultural Research in Africa: Investing in Future Harvests discusses the need to shift to a growth path based on increased productivity as in the rest of the developing world which is essential if Africa is to increase rural incomes and compete in both domestic and international markets. Such a shift ultimately requires building on evolving improvements that collectively translate to deepening rural innovation capacity.

The Indian Journal of Agricultural Sciences, 2018 50 Years of Green Revolution M. S. Swaminathan, 2017-03-14 The green revolution in India about 50 years ago transformed India's image then as begging bowl to bread basket. This transformation during the 1960s took just about 4 years. The yield increases achieved in wheat and then in rice which occurred in just about half a decade is far in excess of the yield increases during the preceding 4000 years. This remarkable feat was achieved with the leadership of the author using the dwarf wheat types which had been produced by Norman Borlaug in Mexico. The research and development of green revolution of wheat and rice at the Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi was led by the author along with his team of students and co-workers. He has published over 100 papers on green revolution and the ever green revolution which is a refinement of the former. This book is a compilation of just about 40 of his numerous research papers, monographs and books published by him on this subject. The papers in this book bring out the scientific basis of the modification of the plant type so as to be responsive to exogenous addition of chemical fertilizers and irrigation. The ideal plant type enables capture of adequate sunlight and using the chemical fertilizers added to the soil produce substantial photosynthetic starch. And because the plants have short and thick culm they are able to withstand enormous amounts of grains in their ears. This indeed was the basis of breaking the yield barriers associated with native varieties. The book also brings out that green revolution had established the food security at the national level but not at the individual household levels of millions of resource poor rural small and marginal farming, fishing and landless families. Further green revolution was commodity centric and the manner of its practice led to environmental degradation and social inequities. This author realized as early as 1972 that system of agriculture in India should be designed to fight both the famines of food and rural livelihoods. In pursuit of it this author further designed an evergreen revolution with systems approach. What this means is providing concurrent attention to ecological foundations of agriculture and the livelihoods of the rural people. The book also brings out that green revolution was a team effort involving scientists, policy makers, administrators, farmers and students. This book is an outstanding example of green revolution providing a breathing space by putting the cereal grain production rate ahead of the population growth rate and then when food security has been adequately established the system is changed to achieve productivity in perpetuity without causing environmental and social harm.

The Economics of Chocolate Mara P. Squicciarini, Johan Swinnen, 2016-01-21. This book written by global experts provides a comprehensive and topical analysis on the economics of chocolate. While the main approach is economic analysis there are important contributions from other disciplines including psychology, history, government, nutrition and geography. The chapters are organized around several themes including the history of cocoa and chocolate from cocoa drinks in the Maya empire to the growing sales of Belgian chocolates in China, how governments have used cocoa and chocolate as a source of tax revenue and have regulated chocolate and defined it by law to protect consumers' health from fraud and industries from competition, how the poor cocoa producers in developing countries are linked through trade and multinational companies with rich consumers in industrialized countries and how the rise of consumption in emerging markets China, India and Africa is causing a major boom in global demand and prices and a potential shortage of the world's chocolate.

The State of Food and Agriculture 2017 Food and Agriculture Organization, 2017-11-10. One of the greatest challenges today is to end hunger and poverty while making agriculture and food systems sustainable. The challenge is daunting because of continued population growth, profound changes in food demand and the threat of mass migration of rural youth in search of a better life. This report presents strategies that can leverage the potential of food systems to become the engine of inclusive economic development and rural prosperity in low income countries. It analyses the structural and rural transformations now under way and examines the opportunities and challenges they present to millions of small scale food producers. It shows how an agroterritorial planning approach focused on connecting cities and towns and their surrounding rural areas combined with agro industrial and infrastructure development can generate income opportunities throughout the food sector and underpin sustainable and inclusive rural transformation Journal of Soil and Water Conservation ,2017 Vol 25 no 1 contains the society s Lincoln Chapter s Resource conservation glossary White Paper on Science and Technology ,2015 Tropical Agriculture ,2016-10 Economic and Social Survey of Asia and the Pacific United Nations Publications,2016 The Survey 2014 will examine the regions challenges to support its economic growth and to promote inclusive and sustainable development Part I of the report will focus on the regions outlook as it contends with the ongoing global recovery and assesses the regions policy response to remaining and emerging vulnerabilities A special theme is domestic resource mobilization in Asia Pacific which will explore the challenges on strengthening tax revenues Part II of the report discusses strategic approaches to strengthen regional connectivity to achieve shared prosperity JARQ. ,2017
