

Topic : Agricultural economics

Subtopic : Production factors

- Definition of the concept production factors
- Factors of production are all the inputs needed in order to produce the output
- In Agriculture , there are four main recognised factors of production. They include the following in their chronological order:
  1. Land
  2. Labour
  3. Capital and
  4. Management/ Farm management

We proceed learning about the first production factor THE LAND

1. The definition of the concept Land
  - Land is the area of ground used for farming and agricultural production.
2. Economic functions of land
  - Land can be used for collateral meaning is used to secure lend capital.
  - It provides space for human settlements.
  - It is a source of minerals used to manufacture fertilisers
  - It provides food for both humans and animals.
3. Economic characteristics of land

Agricultural Sciences Question Paper 2 2014:

Research Methodology in Agricultural Sciences Jayne Njeri Mugwe, Steven Runo, 2026-01-01 This authored textbook provides a comprehensive guide to the methods and methodologies currently used in agricultural research covering the entire process from conceptualisation to reporting. Recognising the interdisciplinary nature of agricultural science the book integrates both biophysical and social science approaches including experimental design on farm research surveys, qualitative and mixed methods research and impact evaluation. It also addresses both quantitative and qualitative data analysis. In addition to methodological guidance the book offers practical support in scientific writing, thesis development, journal article publication and science communication. Theories and concepts are clearly explained using real world examples, flow diagrams, photographs and case studies to enhance understanding. Designed to support students and early career researchers this book helps ease the steep learning curve associated with conducting credible, ethical and impactful research. It will be a valuable resource for students, faculty, researchers, professionals, agricultural scientists and policy makers in both national and international contexts.

Natural Resources, Policy and Global Affairs, Science and Technology for Sustainability Program, Committee on Considerations for the Future of Animal Science Research, 2015-03-31 By 2050 the world's population is projected to grow by one third reaching between 9 and 10 billion. With globalization and expected growth in global affluence a substantial increase in per capita meat, dairy and fish consumption is also anticipated. The demand for calories from animal products will nearly double highlighting the critical importance of the world's animal agriculture system. Meeting the nutritional needs of this population and its demand for animal products will require a significant investment of resources as well as policy changes that are supportive of agricultural production. Ensuring sustainable agricultural growth will be essential to addressing this global challenge to food security. Critical Role of Animal Science Research in Food Security and Sustainability identifies areas of research and development, technology and resource needs for research in the field of animal agriculture both nationally and internationally. This report assesses the global demand for products of animal origin in 2050 within the framework of ensuring global food security evaluates how climate change and natural resource constraints may impact the ability to meet future global demand for animal products in sustainable production systems and identifies factors that may impact the ability of the United States to meet demand for animal products including the need for trained human capital, product safety and quality and effective communication and adoption of new knowledge, information and technologies. The agricultural sector worldwide faces numerous daunting challenges that will require innovations, new technologies and new ways of approaching agriculture if the food, feed and fiber needs of the global population are to be met. The recommendations of Critical Role of Animal Science Research in Food Security and Sustainability will inform a new roadmap for animal science research to meet the challenges of sustainable animal production in the 21st century.
