Food Systems Profile - Zimbabwe Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2022-08-03 Food systems are intimately linked to our lives through the food we eat our nutrition and health our livelihoods jobs and the environment and natural resources of the planet The main challenge for food systems is to produce nutritious food for all while preserving our biodiversity and environment and ensuring equitable distribution of wealth This Food Systems Profile provides a summary of the main food system issues in Zimbabwe and highlights potential solutions for their sustainable and inclusive transformation It is the result of a systemic analysis and stakeholders consultation that was part of a global assessment of food systems in over 50 countries following a joint initiative by the EU FAO and CIRAD which aims at catalyzing the sustainable and inclusive transformation of food systems

The Southern African Development Community in Zimbabwe Rich Mashimbye, 2024-02-13 This book narrates the unravelling of Zimbabwe a country that was once considered an inspiration on the continent of Africa in terms of socioeconomic development Recognising that many factors contributed to the collapse of the nation and that this collapse was a process that occurred over a long period it looks at historical events and processes like the colonisation of the country and dispossession of the indigenous people and the misuse politically motivated violence and economic mismanagement that followed under Robert Mugabe as the pivotal moments that precipitated the subsequent fall of Zimbabwe The book also examines the role that the regional intergovernmental organisation the Southern African Development Community SADC played in trying to help Zimbabwe overcome its security political and economic challenges

Economic Dualism in Zimbabwe Daniel B. Ndlela, 2019-05-03 This book identifies the root causes of income inequality in underdeveloped economies and proposes new solutions for structural reform in economies that have long neglected and exploited working people It focuses on the case of Zimbabwe a classic example of an African post colonial state continuing with dualistic economic structures while simultaneously laying the blame for the initiation of this form of underdevelopment with colonialism The book explores the colonial roots of economic dualism in which traditional sectors run alongside newer forms of wage employment and suggests ways for Zimbabwe to move beyond the ingrained inequalities and asymmetries in production and organisation that it generates Using a combination of theoretical and empirical approaches Economic Dualism in Zimbabwe demonstrates how economic dualism can be eliminated through structural transformation of the traditional agricultural sector and reallocation of labour across sectors The author comprehensively discusses the origins of dualism in Zimbabwe how it developed in land labour credit and financial markets who stands to gain and lose from it and ultimately what reforms are needed to eliminate dualism from the economic system The book aims to complement efforts made by both North and South to transform this structurally embedded cause of underdevelopment and seeks to motivate change in the collective development agenda mindset This book will be of interest to graduate level students scholars researchers and policy practitioners in the fields of Development Studies Economics Agricultural Policy Labour Policy

Economic Planning and African Studies Validating Technological Innovation David Coniam, Peter Falvey, 2016-04-02
This book discusses Hong Kong's use of onscreen marking OSM in public examinations. Given that Hong Kong leads the way in OSM innovation, this book has arisen from a recognised need to provide a comprehensive coherent account of the findings of various separate but linked validation studies of onscreen public examinations in Hong Kong. The authors discuss their experience of the validation process, demonstrating how high stakes innovation should be fully validated by a series of research studies in order to satisfy key stakeholders. The State of Social Safety Nets 2015, 2015
Over the last decade a policy revolution has been underway in the developing and emerging world. Country after country is systematically providing non-contributory transfers to poor and vulnerable people in order to protect them against economic shocks and to enable them to invest in themselves and their children. Social safety nets or social transfers, as these are called, have spread rapidly from their early prominence in the middle income countries of Latin America and Europe increasingly to nations in Africa, Asia and the Middle East, and today over 130 developing countries have made investments in social safety nets an important pillar of economic development policies. The statistics and analysis in The State of Social Safety Nets 2015 capture this revolution and reveal it in many dimensions at the country, regional and international levels. This latest edition of a periodic series brings together a large body of data that was not previously available, drawing on the World Bank's ASPIRE database and other sources. Why have so many countries made a firm commitment to incorporate social safety nets as part of their social and economic policy architecture? Because social safety nets work. This report also reports on the rigorous evidence that demonstrates their impact and also points the way to making them even more efficient and effective at meeting their development goals. This latest edition of a periodic series brings together a large body of data that was not previously available, drawing on the World Bank's ASPIRE database and other sources to examine trends in coverage, spending and safety nets program performance. Understanding Gender Equality in Zimbabwe Zimbabwe National Statistics Agency, 2016 Power in Contemporary Zimbabwe Erasmus Masitera, Fortune Sibanda, 2018-04-20

Through experience, individuals and groups have promoted ideas that have aided in changing mentalities, attitudes and behaviors in societies at different levels. This book brings together contributors from various academic disciplines to reflect on and theorize the contours of power, including the intrinsic and/or extrinsic models of power which pertain to individuals, communities and/or groups in order to transform society. Reflections are on various groups such as political movements, environmental movements, religious groups, advocacy groups, gender groups, to mention but a few, as they struggle against marginalization, discrimination, exploitation and other
