Pant Perfection

Since Adam and Eve first partook of that forbidden fruit, humans have spent immense resources to develop the perfect accoutrement for all seasons and occasions. While trends continue to evolve with various cultural and economic shifts, pants (also known as slacks) remain the most steadfast form of clothing, holding greater utility and value than all other forms of bottoms.

Pants are more sustainable than other bottoms, in terms of both manufacturing and daily usage. Ostensibly, the best clothes are the clothes a person chooses to wear frequently, without thought or second guess. In the annual Pants Symposium of 2022, Dr. Jeremy Trousers of Slack University notably said, "Pants have a psychology behind them. Pants can be worn at any time of year and are thus more likely to be worn than to stay stuck in a pile in the closet or at the bottom of a landfill."

Many people state that pants are naturally built for discomfort. However, this argument is specious at best. A survey of the student campus found that pants were not more or less comfortable than any other item of clothing. This suggests that pants are not as uncomfortable as often stated by the larger population, while also bringing to light the naturally subjective concept of "discomfort."

Pants are the best bottom covering and one of the best forms of clothing among all basic metrics. Questions about labor practices and materials used in manufacturing are worth addressing, but these apply to larger clothing industry standards. Further consideration of the clothing industry's impact on ecology and human labor is worthy and may prove to only support pants supremacy.

Teaching and Learning Argumentative Writing in High School English Language Arts Classrooms George E. Newell, David Bloome, Alan Hirvela, 2015-06-05 Focused on the teaching and learning argumentative writing in grades 9-12, this important contribution to literacy education research and classroom practice offers a new perspective: a set of principled practices and case studies of excellent teaching. The case studies illustrate teaching and learning argumentative writing as the construction of knowledge and new understandings about experiences, ideas, and texts. Six themes key to teaching argumentative writing as a thoughtful, multi-leveled practice for deep learning and expression are presented: teaching and learning argumentative writing as social practice; teachers' epistemological beliefs about argumentative writing; variations in instructional chains; instructional conversations in support of argumentative writing; deep learning and appreciation of multiple perspectives; contextualized analysis of argumentative writing and the teaching and learning of argumentative writing and the construction of rationalities. Demystifying Academic Writing in Higher Education: A Process View on Academic Textual Production Xinghua Liu, Rui Alexandre Alves, Angelique Aitken, Josef Schmied, 2025-10-30 Academic writing in this Research Topic refers to the type of writing demonstrating students' disciplinary knowledge of and proficiency in synthesizing, analyzing, and responding critically to new information. Hyland (2004) and Swales (1990) define academic writing as those genres like course essays, project reports, research proposals, lab notes, journal articles, conference papers, theses, and dissertations. As the current workplaces have become increasingly specialized, higher education worldwide has been increasingly charged with the task of developing students' academic writing and correspondingly on students' parts, learning through writing has been necessary for them to succeed in higher education. To prepare university students for writing challenges during the past decades, numerous studies have been devoted to the study of linguistic and rhetorical resources in students' academic writing under such umbrella terms like style, reader awareness, authorial voice, writers' identity, stance, evaluation, textual structures, steps and moves. Charles Hunston and Hinkel (2002) note that previous research on academic writing has been predominantly focused on the linguistic and rhetorical aspects, namely the final product of students' writing, while the nature and processes of composition, students' engagement, and individual differences and the influence of contextual factors like emerging technology have been under-explored. Thus, the goal of this Research Topic is to bring a process-oriented and dynamic perspective to the study of textual production in academic contexts by both encouraging an expanded view of existing research paradigms and also welcoming novel approaches. Data can be collected by using corpus building, interviews, and questionnaires, but we would also welcome the use of experimental methods and a mixed-method approach for data collection. Meanwhile, previous research mainly studied university students who were learning English as a second or foreign language; hence, we also welcome research examining first-language writers and students who are learning a second or foreign language other than English. We believe for the study of the complex phenomenon like academic writing, no single method or tool can suffice Therefore we strongly recommend a more creative perspective in data collection and analyzing and interpreting academic writing Papers can present quantitative data analyses based on experimental design or qualitative data analyses stemmed from more ethnographic oriented research Systematic review studies are also welcome We encourage contributions related but not restricted to the following topics 1 Cognitive processes in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 2 Metacognition and self regulation in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 3 Motivation and self efficacy in academic texts planning composing and revisions and student writers individual differences 4 Linguistic and rhetorical choices identity construction and disciplinary knowledge construction 5 Student writers textual production peer feedback and interactions with discourse communities 6 Affordances and challenges of artificial intelligence AI in the process of academic textual production in higher education

Current Issues in Reading, Writing and Visual Literacy Helene Christina Demirci, Christina Gitsaki, Melanie Taylor Gobert, 2015-10-28 This volume brings together a collection of papers presented at the 2014 World Congress of the International Association of Applied Linguistics AILA held in Brisbane Australia and represents current research and practice from across the globe related to reading writing and visual literacy Given that globalisation has resulted in an increase in the pursuit of second language often English literacy for those who want to enhance their access to better education and employment options the development of literacy skills cannot be left to chance This book explores current efforts to tease out the variables involved in the development of literacies and will inform educators and teacher trainers of ways to improve classroom pedagogies and increase learner literacy competencies The volume will be of use to both new and seasoned researchers wishing to enhance their understanding of current and emerging perspectives in the development of literacies It will also be of interest to language teachers and language policy makers as the papers address current issues in language education

Competition Over Content Hilde Godelieve Dominique De Weerd,2007 Between the sixth and twentieth centuries the civil service examinations created and maintained political coherence across the Chinese polity Preparation for the examinations transformed the lives of literate elites by defining educational standards and disseminating a language that determined elite status However as participation in the examinations became central to that status an intense competition to determine the educational curriculum and the subject matter of the examinations erupted between intellectual and political rivals The principal goal of this book is to explain the restructuring of the examination field during a critical point in its history the Southern Song dynasty 1127 1279 which witnessed the increasing domination of the examinations by the Neo Confucian Learning of the Way movement By analyzing textbooks examination questions and essays and official and private commentary Hilde De Weerd examines how occupational political and intellectual groups shaped curricular standards and examination criteria and how examination standards in turn shaped political and intellectual agendas These questions reframe the debate about the civil service examinations and their place in the imperial order
