

To Dismantle

Note — Where a decompressor lever is not fitted the eccentric sleeves and keys referred to are also not fitted, and the build-up is similar to that used on the Perrot and Vaproning Oil engines with the exception of the rocker levers.

- 1 Stand the assembly on end with the decompressor lever uppermost, push the rocker levers, springs, eccentric sleeves and support brackets downwards until the pin retaining the decompressor lever at the end plug is revealed. Remove the pin and withdraw the decompressor lever or end plug assembly. (See Fig. 3.)
- 2 Pull off the adjacent support brackets, then the two rockers, spacer spring and eccentric sleeve. This will disclose the eccentric sleeve key, which must be removed before the next support bracket can be pulled off the shaft. Remove the remaining parts in a similar sequence and extract the keys as they are revealed.
- 3 Finally, remove the front plug after removing the retaining pin.

To Reassemble

- 1 Fit the front end plug and retaining pin to that end of the shaft which has the pin hole correctly drilled.
- 2 Fit the support brackets, keys, eccentric sleeves, rocker levers and spacer springs in their correct order as shown in Fig. 2. The front and rear brackets are interchangeable, as also are the intermediate brackets, which are identified by a tapped hole for the rocker cover bolt. Ensure that the support bracket bolt holes are to the right viewing the shaft from the front end, with each pair of rocker levers inclined towards each other at the valve end.

Fig. 3
Decompressor Lever

- 3 Complete the assembly by pushing all the parts towards the front of the rocker shaft and fitting the decompressor lever and its retaining pin.

To Replace

- 1 Fit the push rods in their original position and place the master caps on the exhaust valve stems if this type of valve assembly is fitted. Care should be taken to prevent these caps falling in the engine.
