

Chapter 5 -- Elasticity and Its Application

In this chapter, look for the answers to these questions:

- What is elasticity? What kinds of factors can increase, decrease, or leave unchanged?
- What is the price elasticity of demand? How is it related to the demand curve? How is it related to demand's responsiveness?
- What is the price elasticity of supply? How is it related to the supply curve?
- What are the income and cross-price elasticities of demand?

It interests...

How large will the response be to a change?

How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good?

How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good?

How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good?

Examples:

- Suppose that the price of a good falls. How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good? How large will the response be to a change in the price of a good?

Price Elasticity of Demand

- Price elasticity of demand measures how much  $Q^D$  responds to a change in  $P$ .
- Formula: the price elasticity of demand is defined as:

$$\text{Price elasticity of demand} = \frac{\text{Percentage change in } Q^D}{\text{Percentage change in } P}$$

Along a demand curve,  $P$  and  $Q$  move in opposite directions, which means that price elasticity is negative. Use this fact to check your work and report all price elasticities as positive numbers.

Example:

The price elasticity of demand for a good is -0.5. If the price of the good falls by 10%, the quantity demanded will increase by 5%.

Calculating Percentage Changes

Formula:  $\text{Percentage change} = \frac{\text{New value} - \text{Old value}}{\text{Old value}} \times 100$

Example: If the price of a good falls from \$10 to \$9, the percentage change in price is  $\frac{9 - 10}{10} \times 100 = -10\%$ .
