Forensic Laboratory Management W. Mark Dale, Wendy S. Becker, 2014-09-26 New technologies including DNA and digital databases that can compare known and questioned exemplars have transformed forensic science and greatly impacted the investigative process They have also made the work more complicated Obtaining proper resources to provide quality and timely forensic services is frequently a challenge for forensic managers who are often promoted from casework duties and must now learn a whole new set of leadership skills The interdisciplinary and scientific nature of laboratories requires strong leadership ability to manage complex issues often in adversarial settings Forensic Laboratory Management Applying Business Principles provides laboratory managers with business tools that apply the best science to the best evidence in a manner that increases the efficiency and effectiveness of their management decision making The authors present a performance model with seven recommendations to implement illustrating how forensic managers can serve as leaders and strategically improve the operation and management in scientific laboratories Topics include Key business metrics and cost benefit analyses Ethical lapses why they occur possible motives and how problems can be prevented Forensic training education and institutes ISO IEC 17025 accreditation implementation The book includes case studies simulating a working laboratory in which readers can apply business tools with actual data reinforcing discussion concepts Each chapter also includes a brief review of current literature of the best management theories and practice The downloadable resources supply two mock trial transcripts and associated case files along with PowerPoint slides from Dr George Carmody s workshop on Forensic DNA Statistics and Dr Doug Lucas s presentation on ethics

Traditional Medicine and Rheumatology Runyue Huang, Per-Johan Jakobsson, Xiaojuan He, 2021-08-25 Interplay of Epigenetic Regulation and Cellular Metabolism in Cancer Microenvironments Qihui Zhou, Maria Virumbrales Munoz, Lei Zhang, 2025-12-05 In recent years the complex ecosystem surrounding cancer cells known as the tumor microenvironment TME has become a focal point of extensive scientific inquiry The TME is composed of various cellular components like fibroblasts and immune cells as well as non cellular elements such as the extracellular matrix and biochemical gradients Research has increasingly centered on the dynamic interplay between epigenetic regulation and metabolic processes within the TME Such interactions are pivotal in modulating gene expression thereby influencing cancer cells invasiveness and resistance to therapies However despite progress the intricate relationship between metabolic changes and epigenetic modulation in cancer remains insufficiently elucidated revealing a significant gap in our comprehensive understanding This Research Topic aims to advance the understanding of epigenetic influences and metabolic reprogramming within the TME It seeks to stimulate both foundational and applied research that can lead to the development of novel targeted anti cancer therapies by leveraging insights into metabolism and epigenetic regulation The ultimate goal is to enhance the effectiveness of cancer therapies and minimize their adverse effects through innovative approaches that exploit these complex biological networks To enhance research coverage on this subject we invite contributions that address a variety of themes within the context of the TME o Regulation of epigenetic processes within the TME including the roles of non coding RNAs and protein post translational modifications o Exploration of epigenetic markers in the TME with diagnostic prognostic or therapeutic potential o Metabolic processes in cancer cells and their surrounding supportive tissues o Immunometabolism s role within the TME o Adaptation strategies of metabolism in the TME o Impacts of metabolic alterations on immune surveillance immunotherapy and cancer evasion o Tumor associated immune checkpoints mediated by metabolic regulation o Development of novel therapies targeting metabolic and epigenomic pathways o Investigation of new materials influencing tumor cell biology Note that manuscripts consisting solely of bioinformatics or computational analysis of public genomic or transcriptomic databases which are not accompanied by robust and relevant validation clinical cohort or biological validation in vitro or in vivo are out of scope for this research topic
